

Quality Tools for Smart Cleaning™

PRESS RELEASE

More choice, more diverse applications

New products complement UNGER's Stingray® system

Solingen – With Stingray®, UNGER offers a highly efficient solution for professional indoor window cleaning. It cleans windows up to 25% faster, uses 39% less cleaning agent and still guarantees outstanding cleaning results.* The system, which has already received the ISSA Innovation Award, has now been complemented by a new cleaning pad and a practical carry bag – guaranteeing more choice and more diverse applications.

UNGER is now offering additional complete solutions for cleaning indoor window surfaces – in the form of the new Stingray® sets. Professional cleaners can choose between different versions: the 330 Premium Set includes everything that is required for professional indoor window cleaning. The set allows users to quickly and easily work at heights of up to four meters – and without the need for any preparation. All components can be safely stored and transported in a light nylon bag which may also be purchased separately.

The 100 Plus Set comes with a short easy-click pole for cleaning at heights of up to two meters.

New: Stingray® Deep Cleaning TriPad

The new Stingray® Deep Cleaning TriPad made out of top-quality microfiber – which is optionally available as a packaging unit comprising five pads – is the particular highlight of the new sets. It impresses with its high-performance capacity and is thus particularly suited to removing heavy contamination.

Practical: the powerful cleaning strength of the pad reduces the amount of cleaning agent required by around 39 percent.

The new Stingray® Deep Cleaning TriPad also impresses when it comes to longevity. It withstands up to 300 washing cycles – and performance always remains the same.

A new chapter of the success story of the UNGER Stingray® system is being written with the new complete sets and products. Thanks to the broad and diverse product range, every user is bound to find a solution which best meets his or her own needs and guarantees perfect cleaning results.
